

Fast-Draw

3 Position Bow Holder

Ray and his Pope & Young Black Bear,
Taken while using the Fast-Draw

Archer;

This product was developed during preparation for a spring bear hunt. While shooting from a sitting position prior to the hunt I found that I was creating too much movement when reaching for my bow or lifting it from my lap and rotating it to shoot. As many of you know bears (and deer) can be extremely quiet and often show up unannounced. When hunting bear you may need to remain motionless for 4-5 hours at a time. The Fast-Draw helps the bow hunter remain ready while minimizing fatigue, and a rested arm makes a better shot.

What we found after working with the product was that it not only worked well at the knee but also could be used as a standup and sit down holder when clipped to your belt and around the thigh. With the fast-draw you remain relaxed and prepared for the shot. It's also great when walking an archery shoot to stave off fatigue.

A final thought: You can't take the shot if the bow isn't in your hand.

Best of luck ,

Ray

Evaluation of a new piece of equipment and determining if it is worth purchasing is always a challenge. The truth is we all are looking for the very best in equipment. When something new does a better job of accomplishing a task it often becomes a piece of our equipment. I'll bet you have upgraded your bow, arrows, or sight in the last 3 years; shouldn't you give the same consideration to your other equipment? After all you may spend hundreds of hours in a stand before you have that shot of a lifetime.

The Fast-Draw is better than all other methods of holding your bow. Here are some of the things it allows you to do:

1. It allows you to always be ready to draw without reaching, lifting, rotating, or unhooking your bow.
2. It allows you to always have your arrow on your rest, ready to be drawn without having to set it into position.
3. It allows you to be totally relaxed right up until you shoot.
4. It allows you to use it in total darkness (since it is strapped on your body you can use by sense of touch alone).
5. It allows you to hunt however you like; just strap it on and go; still hunting, sitting or standing, on the ground or in a tree.
6. It allows you to be totally hands free when sitting.
7. It allows you to use any bow and adjusts to fit if you change bows.

Here are some things it doesn't have or do:

1. It doesn't have Velcro.
2. It doesn't have metal.
3. It doesn't have hooks to unhook prior to drawing.
4. It doesn't have strings.
5. It doesn't cut off circulation.
6. It doesn't bang, clank, or make noise.
7. It doesn't catch on your cam when you pick it up to shoot.
8. It doesn't damage trees.
9. It doesn't require work to use.

Give it a try and discover how comfortable being ready can be.
